

Article Overview

Domestic distribution boxes in Kuwait are available in various configurations, including 10-way and 18-way models, designed for safe and organized electrical distribution in residential and commercial settings.

Overview

A domestic distribution box (also called a consumer unit or electrical panel) is used to safely distribute electricity from the main supply to different circuits within a home or building. These boxes provide protection through circuit breakers or fuses and help organize wiring for easy maintenance and safety.

Popular Products in Kuwait
